COMMENDING 125TH ANNIVERSARY OF NORWOOD, NORTH CAROLINA IN STANLY COUNTY

(Mr. HAYES asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. HAYES. Madam Speaker, today I want to recognize the town of Norwood, North Carolina, for its 125th anniversary. Norwood has a rich and vibrant history as the area's earliest settlers arrived in the 1750s, and the town officially was incorporated in 1881.

In the beginning, Norwood was a town thriving on agriculture and newly established railroad lines. Local entrepreneur Troy J.W. McKenzie relocated his business to Norwood and commented that the town will very soon, unless indications are false, become an important trade center.

McKenzie was correct. In the 21st century, Norwood is the home of many local and international manufacturing companies, and this business-friendly environment has the potential for continued economic growth. Today I say congratulations to the town of Norwood for 125 years, many exciting years to come.

FEDERAL CONTRACTS AND SUDAN

(Ms. LEE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. LEE. Madam Speaker, more than $600 million of Federal contracts has gone to companies whose business in Sudan may directly or indirectly support the Sudanese Government's campaign of genocide in Darfur. No one should have to worry that their tax dollars are supporting genocide, and that is why I am introducing the Darfur Accountability and Divestment Act of 2006.

This bill is designed to wash the blood off of our Federal contracts and increase the financial pressure on Khartoum to end the genocide in Darfur. It also protects the rights of States to divest their own public pension funds from companies doing business in Sudan, because some in the other body insist on stripping that language out of the Darfur Peace and Accountability Act.

Divestment played a critical role in ending apartheid in South Africa, and it is unconscionable that anyone in Congress would try to prevent people from washing the blood from their pensions and doing their part to end this genocide. We have a moral responsibility to use every tool at our disposal to end this genocide.

I call on my colleagues to cosponsor my bill and support the growing national divestment movement.

PROTECT OUR BORDERS

(Mr. STEARNS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. STEARNS. Madam Speaker, it has been more than 5 years since the terrorist attacks on September 11. In looking back, we have made great progress in uprooting the terrorists from their havens and liberating millions of people. We also have provided our law enforcement and intelligence agencies with new tools to combat these threats. Yet there is so much more to do. We are at war with terrorists, and we must protect our borders.

If we cannot control our borders, how can we prevent those who would murder us from entering our Nation? Millions attempt to enter our Nation illegally every year. Many are apprehended.

I commend our Border Patrol for their fine work under difficult situations; however, millions have crossed the border successfully in the past 5 years, and we do not know how many terrorists there are. Our borders are another battleground in the war on terror.

HOLD ON FDA COMMISSIONER OVER RU-486

(Mr. PITTS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PITTS. Madam Speaker, I rise today to comment on Senator Jim DEMINT's decision to put a hold on Andrew van Eschenbach's nomination to head the FDA. This has to do with a drug, an abortifacient called RU-486. This drug has been linked to eight deaths, nine life-threatening incidents and more than 200 hospitalizations.

The FDA is charged with safeguarding public health, so it only makes sense that the FDA Commissioner would support suspension of the drug, RU-486, until a full investigation can be completed on its effect on women's health. Nine other drugs have been suspended in the past 8 years that didn't cause a single death, yet this known health threat remains on the market as we speak. Madam Speaker, this is nothing less than irresponsible, and it is time the FDA exerted some leadership on the issue.

Senator DEMINT has acted in the interest of women's health and common sense. I thank him for his leadership.

CONGRESS IS ACTING ON ILLEGAL IMMIGRATION

(Mr. WILSON of South Carolina asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WILSON of South Carolina. Madam Speaker, faced with two conflicting bills regarding illegal aliens, the House-passed border security bill and the Reid-Kennedy amnesty plan, House Republicans left Washington in August tasked with answering one question: How did the American people want us to handle this issue? After holding multiple field hearings and town hall meetings across America, we are back in Washington, and the American people expect us to act, and that is just what we are doing.

We began by passing the Secure Fence Act last week, and today we will consider three more bills vital to securing our borders and restricting the flow of illegal aliens into our country. It is time to curtail the invasion of illegal aliens, and we must begin at our borders. House Republicans are keeping up our end of the bargain. Now it is time for the Senate to follow suit.

In conclusion, God bless our troops, and we will never forget September 11.
